

Phat

sea&ocean

Yokaro vol.03

Kagoshima is surrounded by the seas. Pacific Ocean, the East China Sea and Kagoshima bay (called Kinko Bay). Each of them shows us a different view.

Kagoshima Bay

Kagoshima Bay

Kagoshima City has a population of about 600,000 and is a port city.

Kagoshima Bay

Kagoshima Bay of sunset.

The average depth of Kagoshima Bay, 140m back portion bay, 126m Gulf portion, and the mouth is 80m. That of the entire bay is 117m. The maximum depth is 206m at the inner bay, and 237m at the central bay.

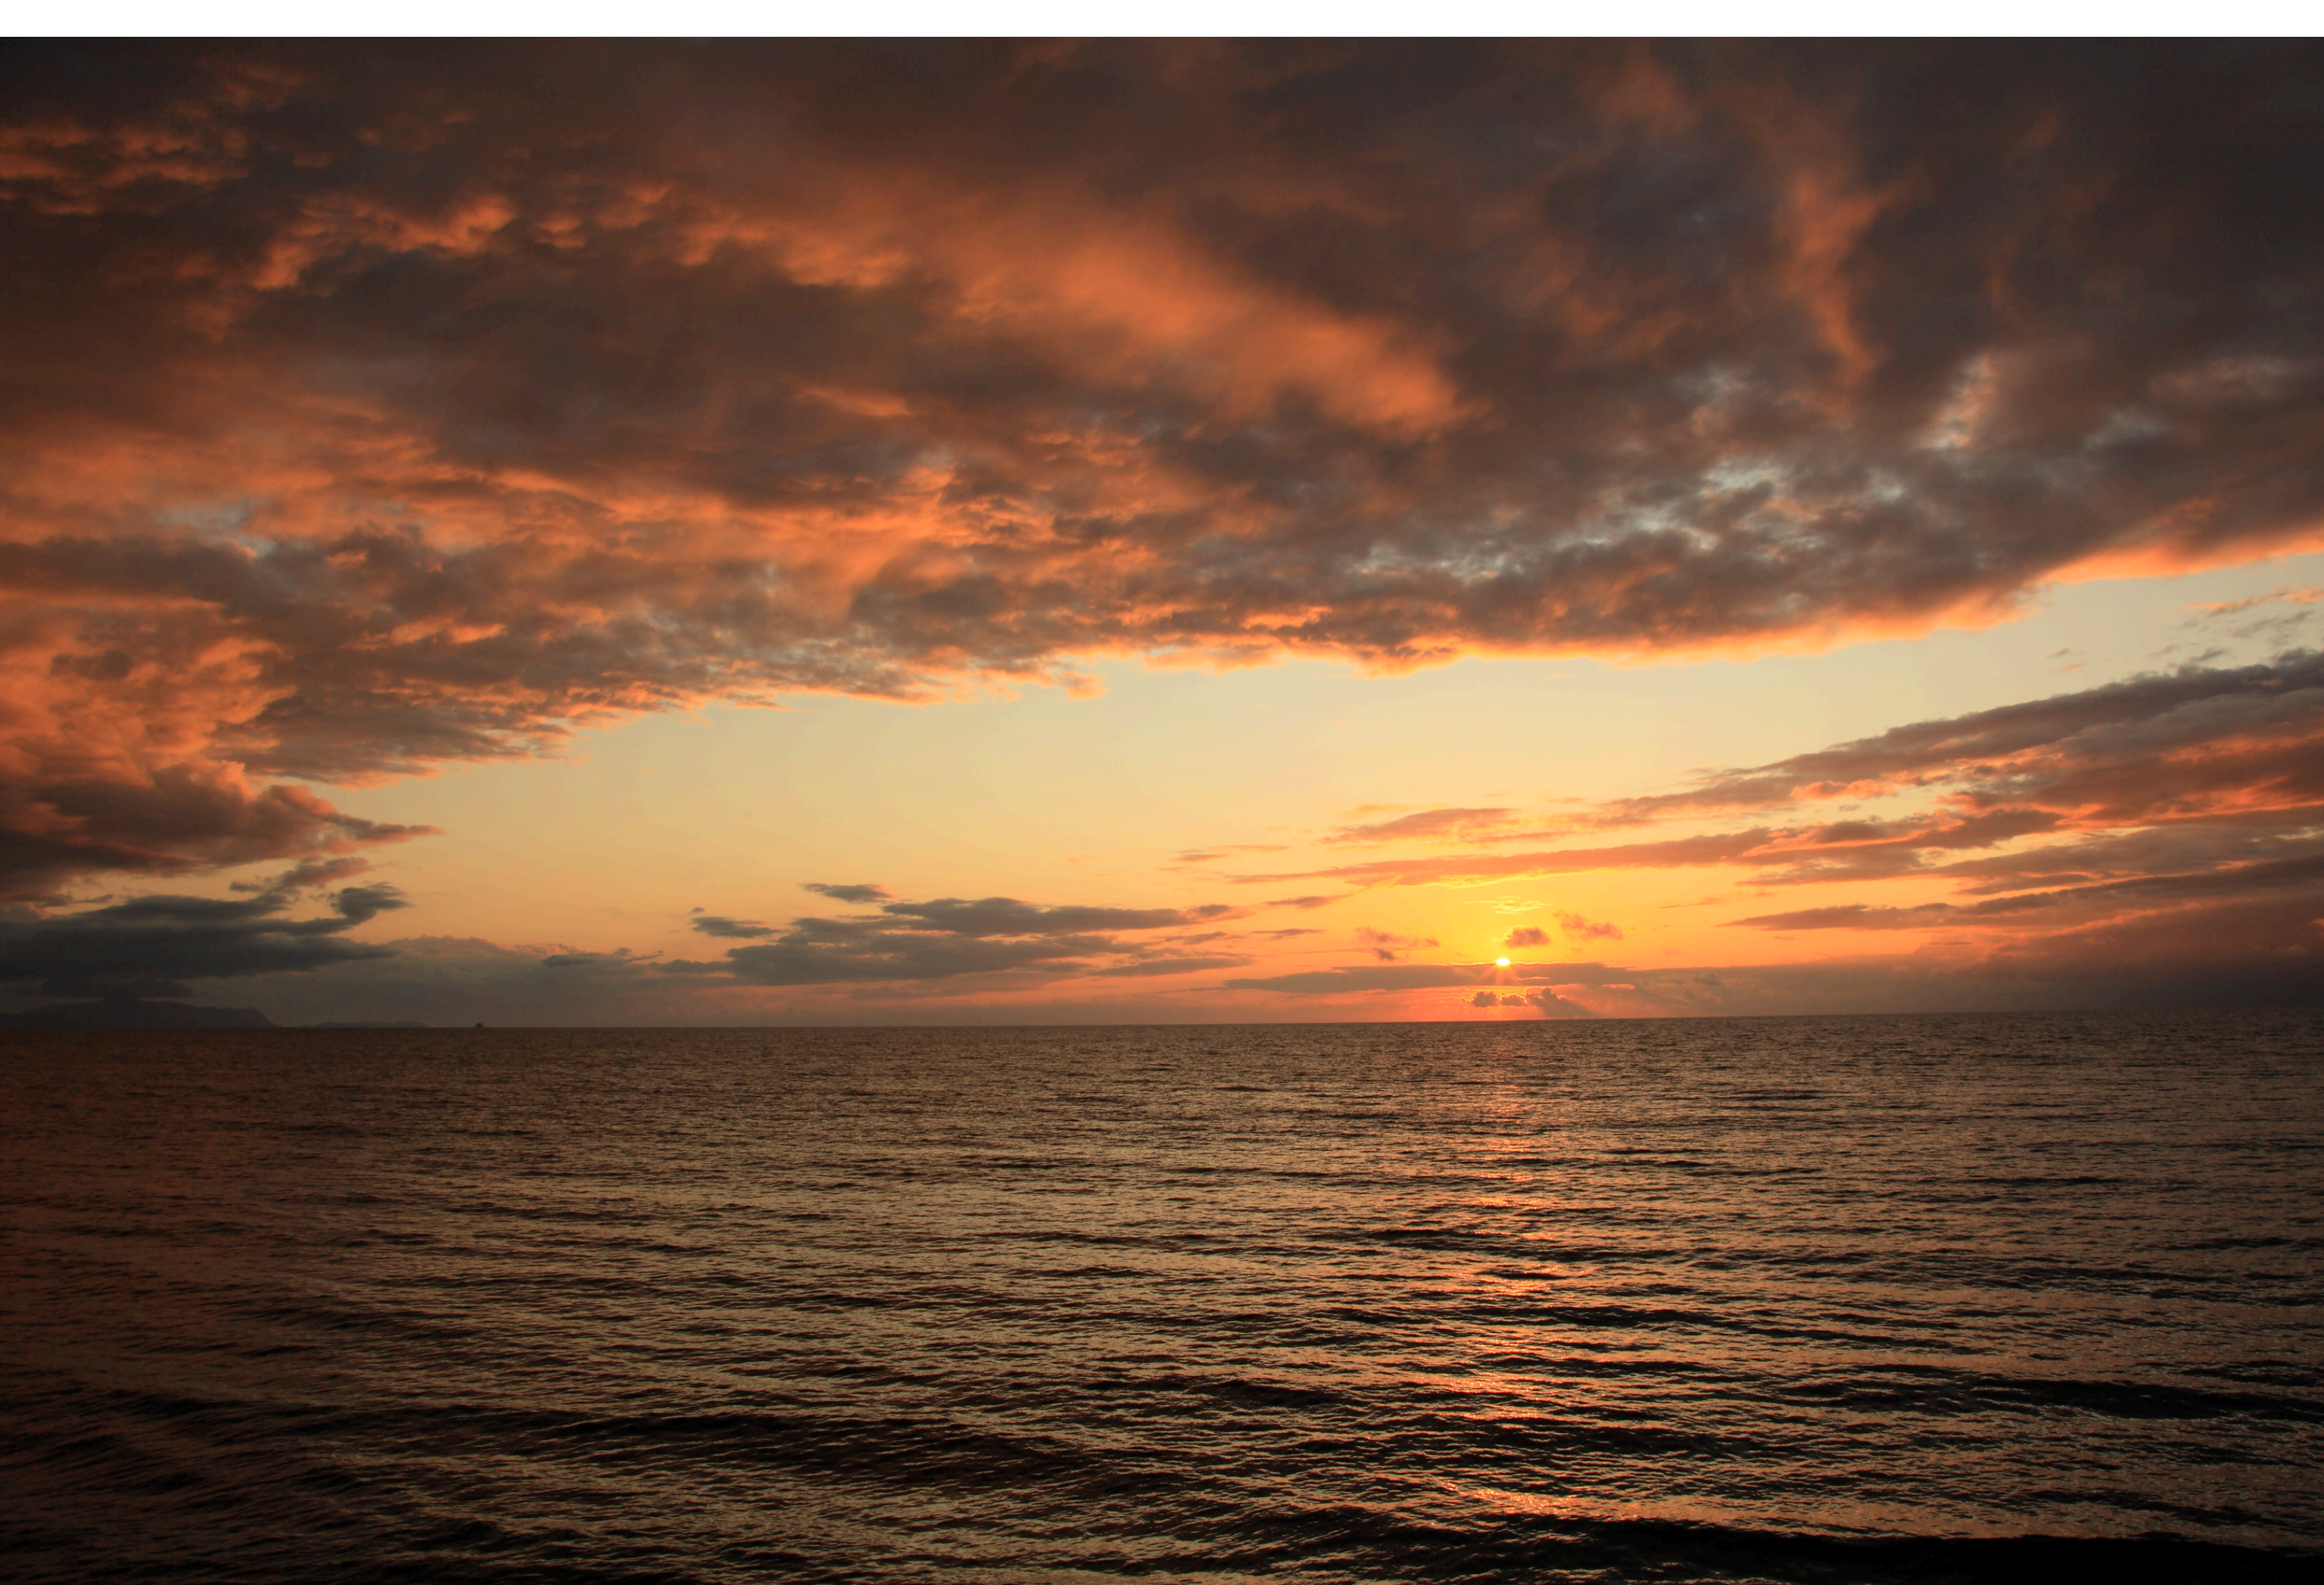

Sakurajima is an active volcano. It is 12km from east to west in Kagoshima Bay, 10km north-south approximately, 55km around the surrounding area of about 77km². It used to be the island literally. But Sakurajima and The Osumi Peninsula have been connected by land because of its big eruption in 1914.

Sakurajima of twilight which dyes red.

The west coast of Kagoshima is spreading East China Sea. The look is vaguely off the coast, Koshiki islands

Attractiveness of the East China Sea, the beauty of the sunset.

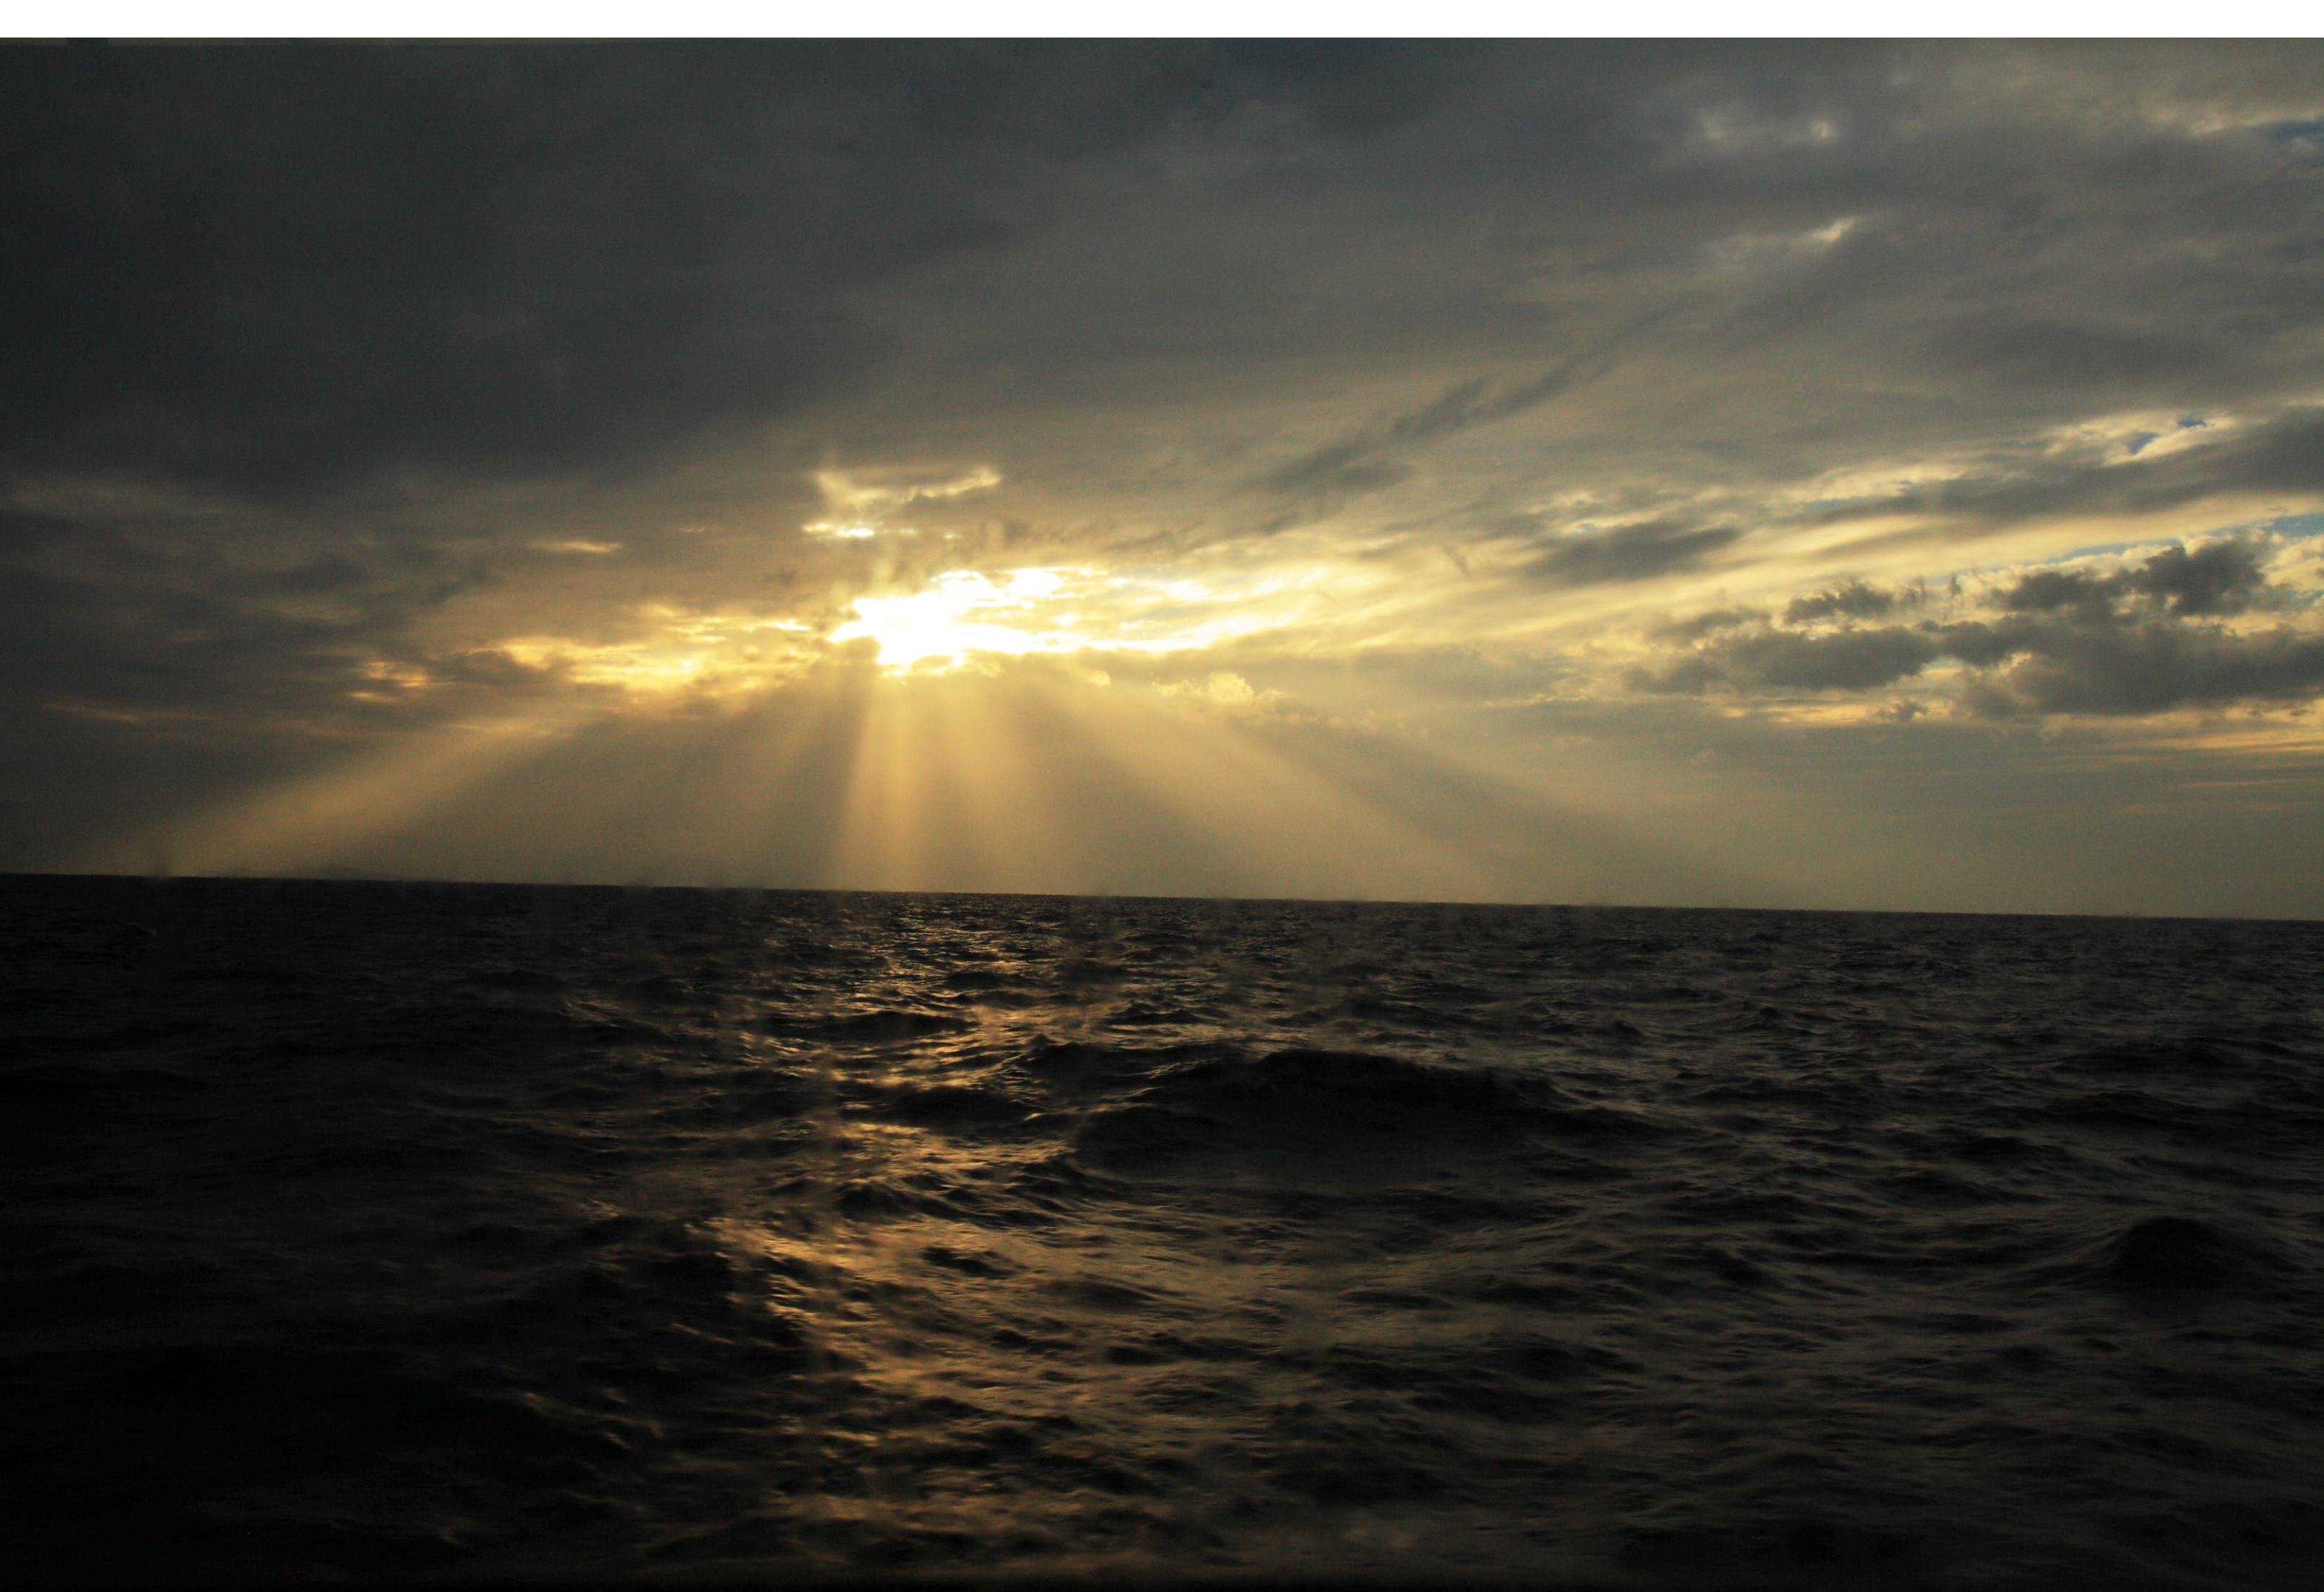

There are Sata cape to an exit of the Kagoshima bay. Beyond there are many islands.

If it comes out of the Kagoshima bay and goes south, large and small islands is connected to Okinawa.

Island World Heritage Yakushima.

Voyage to the surrounding islands in Kagoshima is fascinating.

There are many solitary islands in the far-off sea.

There are many ships in the Kagoshima harbor to go to the islands.

Phat

Takumi Tagawa
DesignStudioWise